QUARTERLY CONNECT

Quarter 2 | FY 2026–27

July-Sept 26

"Continuing the journey, building momentum, and reaching new milestones..."

☀️ Staying Connected...

"What began as an idea has become a tradition—bringing our people, stories, and successes together, one quarter at a time."

With each edition, Quarterly Connect continues to grow as more than just a newsletter—it is a reflection of our people, our shared experiences, and the moments that make the LMA family special. It gives us a space to pause, look back at the journey so far, celebrate our achievements, and stay connected across offices and teams.

As we move through the second quarter of the financial year, the journey continues with new faces, fresh perspectives, meaningful learning, and memorable moments. From welcoming new colleagues and celebrating milestones to team interactions, knowledge-sharing initiatives, and moments of togetherness, this quarter once again reminded us that our greatest strength lies in the people who make LMA what it is.

🌟 Staying Connected...

Across Delhi, Mumbai, Kolkata and Bangalore every team contributes to the larger LMA story. While our work keeps us moving forward, it is the connections we build along the way that make the journey meaningful.

As we look ahead to the rest of the year, we remain committed to learning together, supporting one another, celebrating successes, and creating memories that stay with us. Here's to continued collaboration, new milestones, and many more stories to share—one quarter at a time. 🚀 ✨

"One journey. Many stories. Countless connections."

As we move through another exciting quarter, this edition captures the moments, milestones, and connections that have shaped the past three months. From welcoming new colleagues and continuing our learning journey to celebrating birthdays, achievements, and moments of togetherness, every page reflects the vibrant culture that makes LMA a place where people grow, connect, and succeed together.

Independence Day Message from Lovi Sir

As we celebrated the 80th Independence Day of our nation, our Managing Partner shared a special message reflecting on the significance of the day and the values of responsibility, discipline, integrity and professionalism that guide us as individuals and as a team.

 A Message from Our Managing Partner (Click the links below)

A moment to reflect on our role in contributing to the progress of our nation and building an LMA team that stands apart through its values and commitment.

What Does Independence Day Means to Us?

This Independence Day, our LMA offices across all branches came alive with patriotism and pride! The offices were beautifully decorated in the tricolor of our national flag, creating a festive and vibrant atmosphere.

Teams from every location gathered for a flag-hoisting ceremony, joining together in singing the national anthem, filling the day with unity and pride.

As part of the celebration, we invited our team members to share their thoughts on what Independence Day means to them — beyond just another holiday.

From reflections on freedom and sacrifice to thoughts on responsibility, pride and our role in building a better nation, our colleagues shared what this day means to them personally.

Here are some of the thoughts shared by our team...

🇮🇳 What Does Independence Day Means to Us?

As a child, Independence Day was pure excitement, a welcome reprieve from books and classes, spent on the ground with students from different schools and colleges. I looked forward to A. R. Rahman's compositions, the parade, performances and, of course, the sev, boondi and laddus, something that felt expensive and yet, wonderfully, was free!

More than anything, it was about performing, looking our best and giving our best, marching for our school and wanting to win. A winning legacy carried its own pressure; we wanted to uphold it, not because the others mattered any less, but because we represented something larger than ourselves. Without realising it, that was perhaps our first taste of collective pride.

Back then, the freedom struggle lived largely through textbooks, films and stories; its magnitude was difficult to grasp. Growing up gave those stories context.

Today, I see freedom as both privilege and responsibility. I did not earn it; I inherited it from those who considered their lives and comforts a worthy sacrifice so that generations after them could live freely. That makes freedom feel less like an entitlement and more like a trust, to be safeguarded, respected and cherished.

Maybe growing up is not about outgrowing the excitement of Independence Day, but understanding what that excitement was really celebrating.

Amrita Priyadarshini Bagh, LMA Bangalore

🇮🇳 What Does Independence Day Means to Us?

Independence Day is not just another holiday. It is a reminder of the sacrifices and struggles of our freedom fighters who fought for our country without caring about their own lives. Because of their courage and sacrifices, we are able to live freely today. This day makes me feel proud to be an Indian and also reminds me that freedom comes with responsibility. We should respect the values they fought for and do our part to make our country better.

Anand Shah, LMA Kolkata

Independence Day is about our past, present, & most importantly, our future. This day serves as a powerful reminder of the resilience, sacrifices, and unity that shaped our nation. Beyond being a national holiday, It is a day that brings us together, bridging our differences in language, culture, and faith, while honouring the countless individuals who sacrificed their lives for our liberty. It is a wonderful opportunity to celebrate our diverse culture.

Looking toward our nation's future, I believe the true driving force lies in Youth Power. Equipping today's young minds with quality education and modern skills brings fresh perspectives and unstoppable energy. Investing in their development and potential will undoubtedly help our nation grow faster and succeed in this rapidly changing world. Through this, we lay the foundation for a stronger, more resilient India.

Akshay Naik, LMA Mumbai

🇮🇳 What Does Independence Day Means to Us?

Independence Day is never just another holiday on the calendar. It reminds us of the sacrifices our heroes made for our freedom. Every time we see the national flag and hear our anthem, we feel a deep sense of pride and gratefulness.

"Every individual, with respect, remains united as a community and works together to help our country grow each day."

Wishing all a wonderful Independence Day!

Nitin Gorule, LMA Mumbai

If our grandparents could sit with us today and talk about their era, they could probably tell us the true price of the free air we breathe right now. That era may have passed, but that spirit must remain alive within us. Today is not just a holiday, but a day to remember the silent sacrifices that allow us to live life on our own terms today.

Shipra Misra, LMA Bhubaneswar

During childhood, Independence Day began for me was a season of pure joy, filled with school sports day, the thrilling march past practices that would begin 15 days before and the excitement of winning prizes. As I grew, I learnt about how Bharat achieved Independence and that childhood celebration evolved from schoolyard games into a profound respect for our martyrs, whose sacrifices inspired a deeper sense of national pride and duty. On this day every citizen should take pledge to place collective progress and duty towards nation and fellow citizens above personal interests in order to build a compassionate society for everyone."

🛵 The Maverick on a Scooter: Mission 30303

Content creator Siddhesh Lokare (Sidiously) turned a 30-day scooter journey across Maharashtra into Mission 30303, visiting 30 rural schools and working towards a ₹3 crore fundraising goal. He documented the challenges faced by students, including leaking classrooms, poor sanitation, broken furniture, limited technology and inadequate access to clean water. Through daily videos and storytelling, he brought these realities to a wider audience and inspired individuals, corporates and children to contribute. Beyond improving infrastructure, the mission aims to provide rural students with AI, coding, robotics and technology-enabled learning. Mission 30303 shows how one person's initiative can inspire many and create meaningful change.

🏠 Bringing a Child Back Home ♥️

Sometimes, a small effort can make a life-changing difference.

A young boy from Bihar, whose father is no more and whose mother works as a domestic help in Gurgaon, had run away from home and was eventually found by the RPF near Kolkata. He was placed at a Child Welfare Centre in Singoor, leaving his mother with no means to locate him or travel to Kolkata.

When the matter came to light, Mr. Sasanka Sheker and the Kolkata team stepped in. What followed was nearly a month of patient efforts — visits, follow-ups, paperwork and coordination with the authorities.

Finally, on Friday, 18 September, the boy was released and reunited with his mother. He is now safely back in his village. ♥

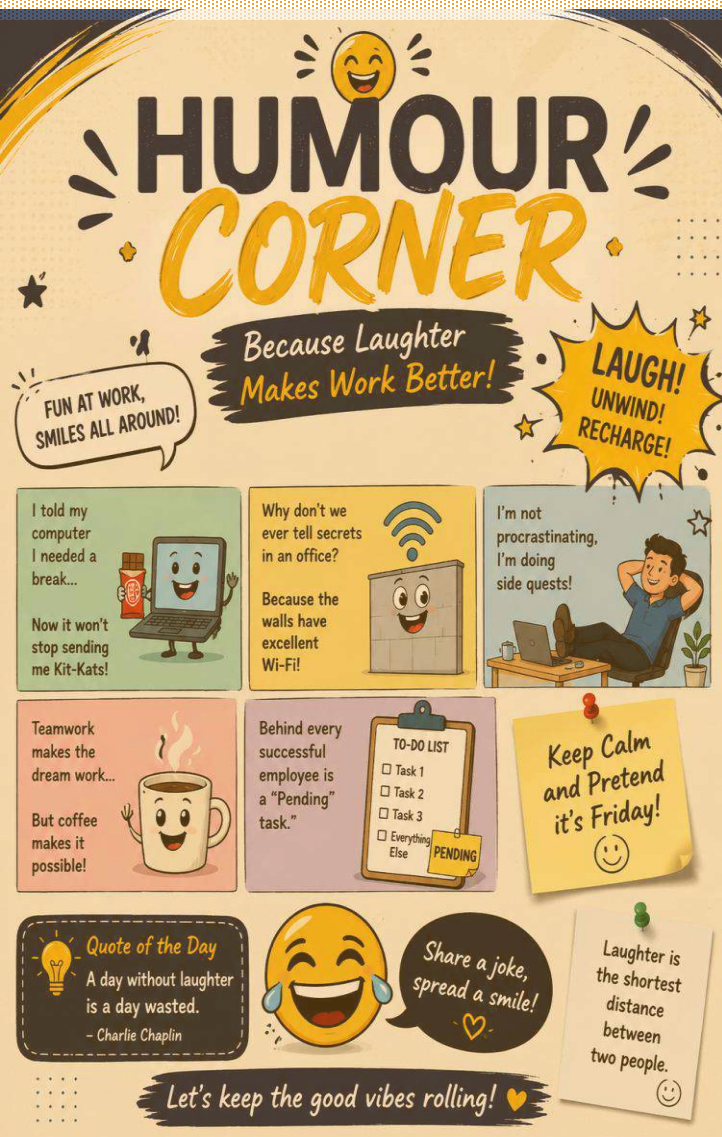

The process was far from simple. The authorities were understandably cautious about releasing him, given the apprehension that he might run away again. The case required considerable documentation, coordination and persistence before the reunion could finally happen.

And this is only one story. There are hundreds of children like him in various child-care centres, many of which face serious challenges, including inadequate funding and resources.

A heartfelt appreciation to the Kolkata team for their patience, persistence and compassion in making this reunion possible.

Sometimes, a good deed does not need recognition. It simply needs someone to care enough to try. 🙌

Every great team shares not just work, but smiles too. Here's a little something to make you grin! ✨

1. "Quick call?" — The three most dangerous words in corporate life.
2. Another day, another "gentle reminder."
3. The printer works perfectly — whenever nobody needs it.
4. Corporate life: where "ASAP" has a flexible definition.
5. Work smarter, not harder — preferably neither on Friday.
6. My favourite office exercise is jumping to conclusions.
